

MIDNIGHT CRY

Fight for this crime tour

We started out as a Christmas band in 2004 in Spokane, Washington, playing covers of Trans-Siberian Orchestra songs and arranging other Christmas classics to create our own unique sound. Throughout the years our members changed and our fan base continued to grow.

In the beginning of 2011, we decided to change direction and began recording a full-length original album. This album, entitled "Fight For This Crime" and scheduled for release this fall, is our first venture outside of Christmas music.

Our sound could be called "Symphonic Metal", combining the guitar-driven force of hard rock with the sweep and grandeur of symphonic music. With influences as wide-ranging as Yanni, Metallica, and Within Temptation, our variety of instrumentation allows for some big arrangements, and we're not afraid to sound "epic" when we want to. We tend to write lyrics concerning the state of the human mind in conflict between people's representation of who they are, and who other people think they should be.

Amalie Marte - Vocals
Danielle Dupey - Vocals
Trevor Murch - Guitar
Lamont Miles - Guitar
Ryan Rauch - Bass
Jesse Slippy - Drums
Leighton Miles - Keys
David Johnson - Keys

"When evil is praised for being evil, and good punished for being good, then the just must rise and fight for their crimes."

www.midnight-cry.com

www.facebook.com/midnightcrymusic

www.youtube.com/midnightcrymusic

www.twitter.com/ midnightcry